It was a cold and wet night and it was below freezing. When one of my mom's friends was driving. She was going down a hill to get in to town. When her car hit some black ice. Her car hit the hill next to it and then it started to roll down the hill. But then it stopped just before another car was coming up the hill.

The reason why she rolled her car was because she was going fast. She also did not know that there was ice on the road. She also had a very small car. It was also on a hill and it was not her fault that she crashed. But accidents do happen even when you least suspect it.

How it affected the people was they were all very worried cause there were kids in the car to and they got hurt and they weren't there. Her husband was worried cause she wasn't with them at the time. But the other kids parents were worried to cause they didn't know where they were. But all of the people got out of the car cause the car was totaled.

My conclusion of this accident though is that people will learn to be more careful and they will drive slower. Even if they are in a hurry. Cause I would slow down as a precaution. Cause people do die from car crashes.

How it affects my life is cause that could have been us instead of them. We also had friends in there cause ; just think people should slow down and not be in a hurry. I also know my mom and dad will take the precaution.
